INTRODUCTION TO AVIATION

The aviation industry encapsulates the development, operation and management of aircraft. While the common perception about the sector is that it's only about pilots and air hostesses, there are numerous other equally significant job options that the industry cannot function without, from in-flight trainers and aircraft maintenance engineers to baggage handlers and reservations agents.

The Aviation market in UAE is forecast under the "current trends" scenario to grow by 170% in the next 20 years.

This would result in an additional 101 million passenger journeys by 2037. If met, this increased demand would support approximately US $127.7 billion of GDP and around 1.4 million jobs.

Aviation generates benefits to consumers and the wider economy by providing speedy connections between cities. These virtual bridges in the air enable the economic flows of goods, investments, people and ideas that are the fundamental drivers of economic growth.
